WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, 1907.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was

4,520

copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

Some more Eddy-tying developments.

No, Barre has not gone completely to the dogs, although there are 500 of them.

Likewise the New Hampshire legislature is about to close one of the longest sessions on record.

April fool's day is past, Mr. Harriman, and it's not a joke when the president calls you a —.

The academic discussion of "What shall we eat?" gives way to the practical answer, "What can you get to eat?"

We are sorry to note that a man with so promising a name as Ketchum should have resigned as chief of police in Rutland.

It is the occasion for wide comment that twenty-eight righteous men have been found in Pittsburg, and the wonder is how they should have become lost.

If Eugene N. Foss, a St. Albans boy, does not make much headway in Massachusetts politics, he is forging way to the head in business, which is of perhaps more lasting importance than the mere fact of securing office.

Really the most important "world's news" yesterday was the Associated Press despatch from Washington concerning President Roosevelt's position on the railroad situation. It is worthy of note that The Evening News was the only Vermont newspaper yesterday that published this news.—Rutland News of Tuesday.

So? Just look over your exchanges.

GETTING ACQUAINTED.

Is the mountain coming to Mahomet?
Or is Mahomet moving over to the mountain? A Vermont Grange is receiving reports from the recent automobile show in Boston. Spirits of departed equines!
We call upon you to kick up your heels, shy into the bushes and deposit your human freight in a heap of broken limbs!
We dare not look in the direction of Middlebury, lest we see the scornful face of the Great Objector and we bark not lest we hear the maledictions poured forth from quivering lips.

But then, why shouldn't farmers discuss as well as cuss the automobile?
Perhaps by discussing sufficiently they will be prepared to drop the other. Least-wise, it can do no harm for them to get acquainted with the machine. At the same time let the automobilists discuss the horse and horsemen in candid fashion. When the interchange of ideas and experiences has reached a sufficiently ripe stage there will be little remaining of suspicion between them.

A SEVERE LESSON.

It is a severe lesson which a young man in the western part of the state has had put before him by the court which sentenced him to not more than two years in confinement for driving down and killing an elderly man a few months ago. It is also rather unusual in Vermont judicial history. Nevertheless, we would not have the result otherwise. It is a case of a young man of good parentage and good position in life permitting himself to become mastered by the tipping habit to the extent that his actions became reckless and irresponsible. While in such a state, as the evidence shows, he was guilty of driving his team with so little regard to the safety of others that a man became a victim, and a manslaughter charge was the result. There was not of course criminal intent on the part of the young man, as the presiding judge pointed out in imposing the sentence, but there certainly was criminal negligence if ever there was. Under the conditions, there could be no other action than a trial on the charge of involuntary manslaughter, and hard as it may be to the friends of the young man to be reconciled, it nevertheless seems the best course that could have been pursued, not alone to the young man himself, but to many another man, old as well as young. To those latter it should be a warning signal, as indeed it will be to the young man who has two years in confinement in which to consider.

RETRACTS HIS PLEA.

Chester Hallock Sentenced For a Criminal Assault.

Burlington, April 3.—Chester Hallock of Elnesburg, charged with criminal assault, was arraigned in Chittenden county court yesterday afternoon. He asked for permission to withdraw his plea of not guilty to the indictment filed against him and entered a plea of guilty. Judge Hall sentenced Hal-lock to serve not more than three and one-half nor less than three years at hard labor in the state's prison at Jailor. The indictment against Hal-lock was presented at the September term of court in 1905 and at the trial the jury disagreed.

JINGLES AND JESTS.

My Tradesman.
My geese comes from Germany,
My laundryman's Chinese,
My candy man's a "parlor vase,"
My servant's Japanese,
My tailor's an Englishman,
A Dutchman sells me meat,
My shoemaker's Italian,
And that's the list complete,
Except the man who brings my tea:
He pockets all he can,
And—'d much rather not confess—
He is American.
—La Touche Hancock in New York Press.

Just Possible.

"The soubrette," announced the leading lady, "is engaged to the contortionist."
"Huh!" exclaimed the heavy villain.
"I suppose she wants a husband that she can wind around her finger."
—Chicago News.

Spacing.

The parlor sofa holds the twin,
Miranda and her lovesick swain, Headache.
But hark! A step upon the stair!
And papa finds them sitting there.
He and she. —Fuck.

These Happy Years.

"For five years his married life was ideal," said the friend.
"For five years only?" asked the other.
"Yes. During those years he was lost with a polar expedition."—Judge.

A Limerick.

There was a young lady of weight
Who loved to lean long on the gelight.
When a young man she knew Was leaning there knew
She was in a heavenly plight.
—Woman's Home Companion.

Handy Man in the Family.

Howitt—I have a brother who is in the insurance business.
Jewett—Fire or life?
Howitt—Both.
Jewett—Then he can insure you for both this world and the next.—New York Press.

Kicking.

There's a peril in the kicker's way
Which some so constantly pursue.
Because your foot may slip some day,
And then, oh, what a bump is due!
—Washington Star.

That Queered Him.

Ascum—Your friend Poppley's wife and her people don't seem to like you.
Newitt—I believe they hate me. They will never forgive me because Poppley named his first boy after me.—Philadelphia Press.

But, Alas, It Comes!

They say "tomorrow never comes."
T'd bid goodby to sorrow
If it did not, for I have got A note to meet tomorrow.
—Ladies' Home Journal.

Not Idle.

"I'm afraid you're an idle fellow, Sam."
"No, sah; I's not idle, sah. Why, I gits my wife more work than she can do, sah."—Yonkers Statesman.

Even More Important.

To know just how to sing's a thing Desirable, but, then,
It's well to know how not to sing
And also where and when.
—Tattler.

Deeper Yet.

Tom—I suppose Yerner is deep in love's young dream.
Dick—Oh, he's past that stage. He's troubled with insomnia now.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Depends on Your Mood.

The difference 'twixt humor in books
And that which we hear after meals:
The former's as old as it looks,
The latter as young as it feels.
—Houston Post.

Cheaper.

Soliciting Electrician.—A burglar in your house would cost you only $30.
Duhns—Great Scott! It would be cheaper not to alarm the burglar.—Lippincott's Magazine.

ANATOMICAL NOTES.

The proper distance between the eyes is the width of one eye.

The hyoid bone at the root of the tongue is entirely detached from the human skeleton.

There are 527 distinct muscles in the human body, of which eighty-three are in the head and face.

There are three times as many muscles in the tail of a dog as there are in the human hand and wrist.

The length of the sole of the foot should be equal to one-sixth of the height of a perfectly formed man.

Chinese Bridges.

The Chinese are known to have built several fine suspension bridges before the opening of the Christian era. One in the province of Yunnan, built in the year 60 A. D., is still in excellent condition.

NEW TAX LAW

The NEW LAW regarding the taxation of deposits in Banks outside the state is as follows: If a person having deposits in Savings Banks, Savings Institutions, Trust Companies or National Banks without this state does not truly state in his inventory the amount of such deposits, he shall forfeit to the town in which he resides the amount of such deposits.

been staying at Randolph Inn for several months, are to begin housekeeping soon in the Howe block.

George Flagg arrived Sunday night from Wisconsin with a carload of 21 horses which he bought there. While driving the horses home, nine of them made a break for freedom and ran down School street and on up the Rochester road. Seven of them were captured, but late Monday afternoon two were still in the woods on Rochester mountain.
